Setting up your payment

It is best practice to include the below standard information in payment instructions to avoid potential delays or returns:

Ordering Customer
- Account number
- Full name (no initials)
- Full address
  - Street address (avoid P.O. Box numbers)
  - City
  - State Code
  - Postal Code
- Country code (2 characters)

Beneficiary Customer
- Account number
- Include the International Bank Account Number (IBAN) or Clave Bancaria Estandarizada (CLABE), if applicable
- Full name (no initials)
- Full address
  - Street address (avoid P.O. Box numbers)
  - City
  - State Code
  - Postal Code
- Country code (2 characters)

Beneficiary Bank
- Full bank name
- Address
- SWIFT BIC

Some countries may also require additional information (i.e., telephone number, purpose of payment, routing codes, etc.). Failing to provide all required information may result in payment delays or returns.

Cross-Border Payment Requirement

Intermediary banks are often used when a payment is made in a currency that is different from the local currency. When making a payment through an intermediary bank, their SWIFT BIC must be included.

Key Terms

International Bank Account Number (IBAN)

The International Bank Account Number, IBAN, is an internationally agreed standard to identify an individual’s account at a financial institution. IBANs should be included for all SEPA payments. SWIFT maintains an IBAN registry (https://www.swift.com/sites/default/files/resources/swift_standards_ibanregistry.pdf) that provides details on the IBAN structure. The structure consists of a two-letter ISO country code, followed by two check digits and up to 30 alphanumeric characters for the Basic Bank Account Number (BBAN).

Routing Codes

Some countries require the inclusion of national routing codes to facilitate routing within the country’s payment systems. Examples of countries with routing codes are Australia and Canada.

SWIFT BIC

SWIFT BIC is a bank identifier code for members of the SWIFT network. Please note: If a branch BIC is not known, the full name and address should be used.

Host-to-Host Formatting Assistance

For translation assistance between SWIFT and file based formats, please reference the table on page 76

- Central Bank: For additional information, please refer to www.bankofcanada.ca.

Country Requirements/Restrictions

- Currency and Clearing Information: Canada has well-developed high-value and low-value electronic payment systems.
- Account Restrictions: Residents and non-residents can hold both domestic and foreign currency accounts. Most Canadian banks offer accounts in USD.
- Canada’s “Proceeds of Crime (Money Laundering) and Terrorist Financing Act” and related regulations impose an obligation on all Canadian financial institutions, including J.P. Morgan, to obtain certain information for wire payments transmitted in a SWIFT 103/103+ format and a SWIFT MT101s that result in the SWIFT MT103 format. In order to comply with these regulatory requirements, J.P. Morgan will require complete order party/beneficiary information to be included in any wire payments that are sent or received through your accounts with us in Canada.

The ideal size of the mandatory fields for ordering party/beneficiary full account name is 35 characters. For the mandatory ordering party/beneficiary address, full physical address components should fit into the rest of the 3 lines with 35 characters in each line. Where the beneficiary name exceeds one line, the full beneficiary name and full address should fit in 4 lines. The address information should not overflow into other fields to avoid delays or rejection.

Financial institutions may reject or delay your wires if the required information is not provided or address information does not include a full physical address in the mandatory fields.

Payment Formatting Rules for CAD

- Ordering Customer (SWIFT MT103/MT101 F50): For MT103 wire payments debiting a non-FCB: client account, the JPMorgan wire engine will enhance the account name and address from account records. For all other MT103/MT101 formatted wire transactions in and out of Canada, including those paid through an intermediary bank, include account number, full name (no initials), and full physical address of the ordering customer. Use of initials can delay receipt of funds by the beneficiary.

- Beneficiary Customer (SWIFT MT103 or MT101 resulting in a SWIFT MT103 F59): For all transactions in and out of Canada, including those paid through an intermediary bank, include account number, full name (no initials), full physical address, and telephone number of the beneficiary customer. - Telephone number of the beneficiary may also be provided in SWIFT MT103 F70

Canada Continued

It is recommended by JPMorgan that the bank’s SWIFT BIC is provided, and, where applicable, the Canadian Clearing Code is provided for CAD payments. Where the SWIFT BIC is not provided, the wire payment may fall into repair.

- It is recommended by Payments Canada that the Canadian Clearing Code or routing code be used for payments denominated in CAD. The 9-digit routing number is made up of the Direct Payment Routing Number (4 digits) and the Branch Transit Number (5 digits). The structure is //CC followed by nine digits. Example: //CC123412345.

- Where applicable, the beneficiary bank address and/or transit number identifies which internal branch account the main bank should direct the fund’s to.

- SWIFT BIC is 8 or 11 alphanumeric characters: xxxxCAxx or xxxxCAxxxx.

Wire receipts for credit to a Canadian corporate account need to be received by JPMorgan Toronto in the swift MT103 format due to Canadian regulatory reporting obligations. If they are received in the MT202 format for credit to a corporate-owned account, the wire receipt in the MT202 format will be rejected and will have to be resent by the counterparty in the SWIFT MT103 format.

China CNY - Chinese Yuan/Renminbi

Overview

- Information provided by the Beneficiary: Remitter should obtain all required bank information from the Beneficiary (e.g., SWIFT BIC, account number, and beneficiary bank address).

- Central Bank: For additional information, please refer to www.pbc.gov.cn.

Country Requirements/Restrictions (On-Shore CNY)

- Payment Restrictions: This is a restricted currency. Restricted currency payments must include all required information, or they will be canceled.
  - Beneficiary must have been activated in RCPMIS, the central bank reporting system, by its local bank before it can conduct any CNY cross-border transaction for the first time.
  - For corporations, payments can be for merchandise, service trade, other current account items (e.g., operating expenses) and approved capital activities.

- Account Restrictions: Non-resident companies require approval from the People’s Bank of China (PBOC) for the opening of CNY’s settlement account in China.

- Additional Documentation: Supporting documents are not required for outgoing payments if the payment bank allows document simplification. Local regulatory reporting applies to all cross-border payments.
  - If requested, the beneficiary must provide the local bank with supporting documentation to validate the underlying transaction and receive credit into the account.

Country Requirements/Restrictions (Off-Shore CNY)

- Currency & Clearing Information: The official ISO currency code for payments is CNY. It is used as the official code to denominate payments and accounts. CNY is the informal currency term used in the off-shore markets, and denotes the foreign exchange rate for the renminbi traded in the off-shore markets.
  - Hong Kong is by far the largest renminbi off-shore market due to its early participation in the renminbi international trade settlement scheme and the development of a domestic RMB clearing system (CHATS) where the Bank of China (Hong Kong) is the settlement institution.

- Payment Restrictions: Since the liberalization of the currency, the renminbi can be used globally as a trade settlement currency in off-shore jurisdictions (outside mainland China).

China Continued

- Like the other off-shore markets in New York, Singapore, Tokyo, and London, no specific regulatory restrictions are imposed on payment initiation and FX in CNY. However, payments involving FX for CNY rate (the on-shore renminbi rate) are subject to restrictions.
  - Only merchandise trades with China to be settled within three months are eligible to contact the CNY rate.

- Receipt of cross-border CNY remittance to personal accounts in China is not supported.
  - Due to China National Advanced Payment System (CNAPS) requirements, cross-border CNY payments with invalid or missing purpose of payment codes may be delayed or rejected by the processing bank in China.

- Account Restrictions: Like the other off-shore markets in New York, Singapore, Tokyo, and London, there are no specific regulatory restrictions imposed on account opening.

- Additional Documentation: Supporting documentation may be requested from the beneficiary to substantiate an FX trade.

Foreign Currency Payment into Mainland China Foreign Currency Current & Capital Accounts

- Foreign currency accounts in China are purpose based. Current and capital accounts are the most common on-shore foreign currency accounts.
  - Current accounts are for normal pay/receivables activities. Capital accounts are reserved for capital injection.
  - Capital account opening can be done based on one-off registration with local regulator. Balance limit is capped at the amount of the approved investment. FX from renminbi to another foreign currency must be supported by documentation detailing the nature/purpose of the exchange.

- Foreign currency receipts relating to merchandise or trade activity will be received into a Verification Account before being credited to the current account.

- Foreign currency receipts of any amount are subject to explanation on nature/purpose of payment.

Payment Formatting Rules for CNY

- Ordering Customer (SWIFT MT103 F50): Include account number, full name (no initials), and address of the ordering customer. Use of initials or beneficiary name mismatches may delay receipt of funds by the beneficiary.

- The provided beneficiary name should be exactly the same as the information registered in China’s central bank information system (RCPMIS).

- Beneficiary Bank (SWIFT MT103 F51): Include the CNAPS code of the beneficiary bank (preferred). Input of the CNAPS code should start with the code word “C/N”. If not available, then include the SWIFT BIC and full name and address of the beneficiary bank. Failing to provide beneficiary bank name and address could result in payment mid-routing and delays.

- CNAPS is a 12/14-digit numeric code that identifies each CNAPS member bank. CNAPS is the renminbi RTGS clearing system in China.

- If SWIFT BIC is not available or the ordering customer is sending local currency within China, include the full name and address of the beneficiary bank.

- SWIFT BIC is 8 or 11 alphanumeric characters: xxxCNxx or xxxCNxxxx.

- Remittance to Receiver Information (SWIFT MT103 F72): A purpose of payment code is mandatory and must be included on its own line in F72 for cross-border China-bound CNY payments. The purpose of payment code should be formatted as /ACC/PURPOSE/XXX or /ACC/XXX. Where XXX is the 3 letter code (can be included in field 70).

Country Requirements/Restrictions
- Currency & Clearing Information: In Japan, there are two cash clearing systems for Japanese Yen payments. One is Zengin and the other is FXICS. Each clearing system has different rules and message format guidelines.
  - Zengin is a clearing system for domestic yen payments among Japanese residents.
  - FXICS is used for international, cross-border yen payments for both Japanese residents and non-residents.
- Maximum payment amount between residents through local clearing system, Zengin, is JPY 9,999,999. Amounts exceeding this limit are split into multiple transactions.
- “Payment on Behalf Of” or “Receipt on Behalf Of” service is not available for Zengin payments.
- Payment Restrictions: JPY is a freely tradable currency both on-shore and offshore.
- JPY payments must be entered in whole amounts with no decimal to avoid rejection.
- Resident companies must report details of all non-trade related transfers in excess of JPY 30,000,000 or the FX equivalent.
- For outgoing Zengin payments, the debit account with JPMorgan Chase Tokyo must be a resident account. For incoming Zengin payments, the credit account with JPMorgan Chase Tokyo must be a resident account.
- For outward payments from Japan, payers and payees are required to confirm their cross-border payments are not related to sanctions in North Korea and/or Iran. Most Japanese banks request remitters to input “NN000” in payment instructions for confirmation that the payment is not related to these sanctions. Without this confirmation, payments may be delayed or cancelled.
- Account Restrictions: JPY accounts and foreign currency accounts can be opened by resident and non-residents.

Basic Payment Formatting Rules for JPY

- For Zengin Payments: In addition to the account number, there are various account types within Japan, including: Saving ("S"), DDA ("D"), Chochiku ("C"), and Others ("O"). The account type is mandatory for all Zengin payments and must precede the beneficiary account number in the beneficiary customer field. Example: S1234567.
- For Zengin Payments: The beneficiary's exact account name in local language is required. If the account name does not perfectly match with the beneficiary's account name recorded at the beneficiary bank, the payment may be delayed.
- Reason for Payment (SWIFT MT103 F70, F2, or F77B): For transactions related to non-account debts and credits, purpose of payment is required for transactions over JPY 1,000,000 or equivalent. This information should be included in either the payment details (SWIFT Field 70), bank to bank (SWIFT Field 72), or regulatory reporting fields (SWIFT Field 77B). It is recommended to ask the beneficiary for confirmation of the exact field to insert payment purpose for their specific beneficiary bank. Without this information, the payment may be delayed.

- Ordering Customer (SWIFT MT103 F50): Include account number, full name (no initials) and address of the ordering customer. Use of initials can delay receipt of funds by the beneficiary.
- Beneficiary Customer (SWIFT MT103 F59): Include an account number, full name (no initials), and address. Use of initials may delay receipt of funds by the beneficiary.
- Beneficiary Bank (SWIFT MT103 F7): SWIFT/BIC with a branch identifier, full name and address of the beneficiary bank. SWIFT BIC is 8 or 11 alphanumeric characters: xxxxRXxx or xxxxRxxxx.

Please refer to the payment purpose code list: https://www.jpmorgan.com/directdoc/list-of-payment-purpose-code-kr.pdf
- If you are not able to find the right purpose code from the list, please discuss with your branch service team to get the right code rather than having "99999" since 99999 is not an actual code which may cause delayed payment release due to the communication back and forth to find the right code. However, if you want to proceed with "99999", please describe the purpose of the payment in free format after purpose code "99999" but the delay of the payment release is unavoidable. If Payment code is one of "10103" and "10104," then Inco terms, HS Code and Customs clearance number are also mandatory from the beneficiary; thus, process is expected longer.
- Beneficiary Registration No.: If the beneficiary is Corporate, please provide 10 digits of company's Business Registration Number in the format of '/OFHR/BRN/1108512345'.
- If the beneficiary is an Individual, please provide 13 digits of "9" in the format of '/OFHR/BRN/9999999999999'. Please DO NOT provide an actual personal ID in the payment instruction in cases where the beneficiary is an individual.
- Beneficiary Contact Person and number: If the incoming payment amount exceeds USD 50,000 then beneficiary telephone number and contact person’s name is mandatory. Failure to include the above information in the payment instruction may result in a delay of rejection of the payment. In case the payment amount exceeds USD 50,000 for inbound payment or USD 5,000 for outbound payment, submission of supporting documents are required. If your purpose code and your supporting documents are not matched, we may amend your payment purpose code in accordance with your supporting document.

Additional Information

- KRW is a zero decimal currency; payments must be entered in whole currency amounts without decimal points to avoid rejection.
- For KRW payments initiated from an offshore account, JPMC Seoul is unable to provide a Certificate of Foreign Exchange Purchased/Deposited.
